

EXHIBITION OF THE
SOCIETY OF AMERICAN PAINTERS,
SCULPTORS AND ENGRAVERS
JANUARY 15th TO JANUARY 25th, 1920

DETROIT INSTITUTE OF ARTS

THIS exhibition of paintings, sculpture, and engravings, (which also includes water colors, pastels, and drawings), is brought together by contemporary American artists, who hold each other in mutual esteem and who are interested in the real development and broad encouragement of American art. The society is so intimate in its organization that it has been able to obviate the hard and fast rules of the jury system, and each exhibitor has been treated with equality, given a certain amount of space, and allowed to send works in any medium consistent with the space allotted to him. The exhibition is of particular interest in that it shows the accomplishment of some of the artists in more than one medium and gives the visitor an opportunity to better study their attainments.
