IN

OIL AND PASTEL

BY

FRANCIS P. PAULUS

DECEMBER, 1910

The Museum is open to the public free, every week day from 9 a. m. to 4 p. m., on Sundays from 2 to 4 p. m.

FRANCIS P. PAULUS is too well known in Detroit, as a former resident and a fruitful worker in the aesthetic uplift of the community, and as Associate Director of the Fine Arts Academy up to a few years ago, to require an introduction to the people who will see his collection. Nearly everyone will remember his work previous to the time he went abroad some eight years ago. It was a matter of regret to the artist and to Detroiters that he could not give his undivided attention to painting instead of spending his best hours in the class room, and there came a time when the road divided, and a decision had to be reached by him as to whether he would continue his good work here or leave Detroit and go where his best hours might be devoted to the development of his ability and genius, and he chose what seemed at the time, perhaps, the harder course. That his choice of the mountainous path was a wise one, is apparent in the exhibition of his paintings which are here shown. Untrammelled by system and routine, his personality has budded forth in his pictures, and in the overworked phrase, "he has found himself." His recognition abroad during the past eight years, insures him a royal welcome home. Detroiters may well feel proud that this was his birth-place, and express their pleasure at each new honor accorded him from now on, and we hope and believe there will be many.
