

EXHIBITION OF

Contemporary American Art

SECURED THROUGH THE CO-OPERATION OF THE NATIONAL ARTS CLUB

NOVEMBER, 1912

The Museum is Open to the Public Free, Every Week Day from 9 a. m. to 4 p. m.; on Sundays from 2 to 4 p. m.

THE NATIONAL ARTS CLUB of New York has long had a standing among the artists and the art lovers, scarcely rivaled by any similar organization in the United States. In its efforts to stimulate and guide the artistic sense of the American people, and to promote the mutual acquaintance of art lovers and art workers, it is as altruistic as a museum itself. Its work in the interests of education along aesthetic lines is not entirely confined to the locality of New York, but its benevolent and distinterested purposes are seen in exhibitions of this kind, brought together with much labor and expense and sent to distant cities outside the natural pale of the Club's interests.

Those who remember the former exhibition of Contemporary Art, of the National Arts Club, shown in the Detroit Museum of Art during February and March, 1911, will receive this exhibition, of equal importance and quality, with much enthusiasm. About one-half of the paintings sent carry with them the distinction of being diploma pictures for Life Membership in the National Arts Club.

The Detroit Museum of Art makes grateful acknowledgment to the National Arts Club and Mr. Frederick S. Lamb, the Secretary, for valuable service rendered in bringing this collection together, and to the artists who contributed paintings for it.

A few of the pictures are for sale. For information regarding them inquire at the desk.
